Foreword

Mansfield State College, on the high eastern hill, has become a dynamic Mansfield, symbolized by change and progress. New buildings, new courses, and a new library science curriculum are exemplifications of a tremendous advancement.

The pursuit of excellence, keystone of the present planning for our College, has brought about a revitalization in all areas of campus life.

Mansfield, in 1961, has witnessed a year of steady achievement.

President Lewis Rath

Dear Faculty and Students,

The class of 1961 is the first class to have moved through four years at Mansfield under the present administration. Probably the most basic impact upon your lives has been the influences of change and of the pursuit of excellence. These philosophies have not been some capricious, spur of the moment, development. They have been spawned by the simple fact that you go into a world of change, and into a world where more and more emphasis is placed upon competence.

In material things we have changed from a library with much to be desired into the most modern library in the area, from a classroom building of antiquity to one which equals the new public school buildings in the state, from the absence of an athletic field to one which is a credit to our college.

It is in the area of spirit and of thought, however, that we have made our greatest changes. It is here that we have continued to press forward toward excellence. The new curriculum, a revitalized faculty, a faculty with great competence in their areas of academic preparation, and the appearance of outstanding scholars, leaders, and thinkers on campus have all contributed toward an improved educational atmosphere. Perhaps nowhere are these changes more in evidence than in the fact that we have not been satisfied with just a new library building, but we have insisted upon the acquisition of the best in books which are the most vital part of a new library.

Because of these things, all of us who have participated in preparing you during your four years here can feel a sense of confidence. We have done the best we can to prepare you for the world into which you will enter—a world of change and a world which demands great ability.

Our best wishes accompany you in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

LEWIS W. RATHGEBER
President

President Rathgeber and Lady

Dean of Instruction
DR. BERNARD BAUM
A.B., A.M., Ph.D., University of Michigan

Two major areas of the instructional program coming under the jurisdiction of the Dean of Instruction have a pronounced effect upon both students and teachers.

Students are affected vitally for from this office recommendations are given for acceptance for admission to the college, records are compiled for the accumulation of authentic credentials for each student, and plans are prepared to assure the acceptable academic status of all candidates for graduation and certification.

Dr. Baum

Dr. Baum confers with Rose Adams, secretary.

Assistant Dean of Instruction
THOMAS COSTELLO
B.S., Shippensburg; M.S., Bucknell University

Faculty teaching assignments are made, course offerings are scheduled, instructional problems are alleviated, curriculum reorganization is developed, and authentic credentials are maintained justifying the professional classification of each teacher.

The responsibilities of the Deans of Instruction are legion: their influence upon the organization and administration of the instructional program is infinite.

Assistant Dean of Instruction, Thomas Costello, and Mrs. Hunsicker, secretary

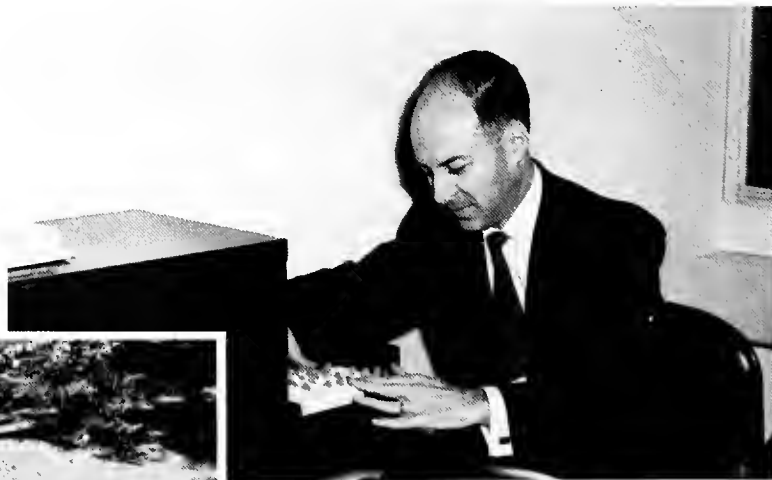

Dean of Students
THOMAS E. GODWARD
B.A., M.A., New York State College for Teachers at Albany

The office of Dean of Students is ably filled by Thomas E. Godward. Dean Godward is genuinely concerned with every facet of student life and academic achievement. For desiring and deserving students, Dean Godward arranges loans and scholarships through employment on campus and through the N.D.E.A. The personnel deans who are under the direction of the Dean of Students work with him to promote harmony and learning among students. Although the Dean of Students is an active person, he is always happy to discuss problems concerning campus life.

His co-operation can be counted upon in any situation. All these things make for an extraordinary man and a successful administrator. The office of Dean of Students is the final word in all phases of student life.

Dean Thomas Godward

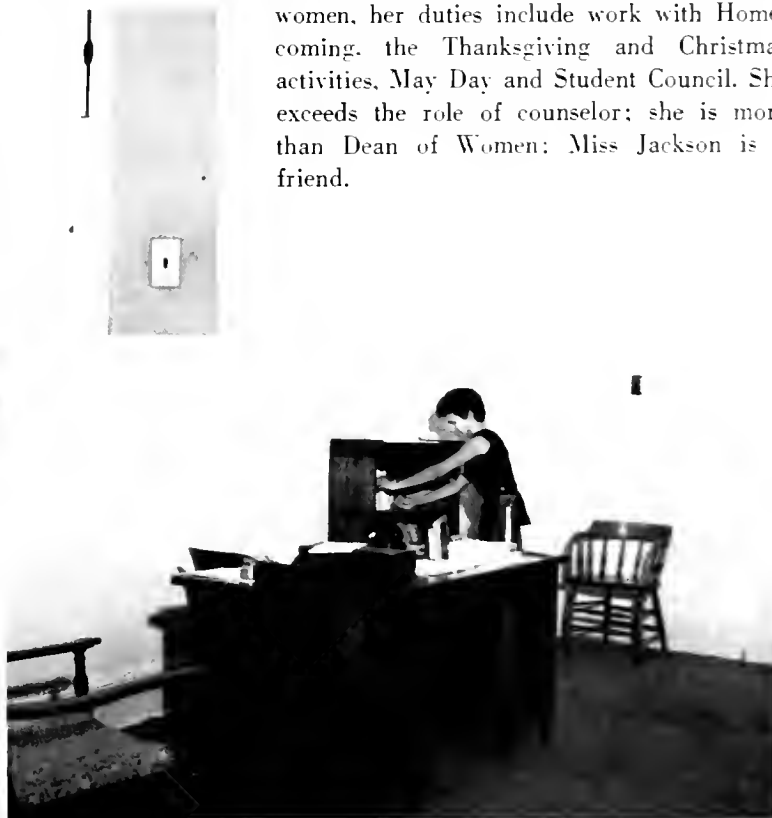

MISS ELLAMAE JACKSON
B.S., West Chester; M.Ed., Pennsylvania State University
Dean of Women

During the first semester of this year, Miss Ellamae Jackson, Dean of Women, was on sabbatical leave. When Miss Jackson announced her plans to go on leave, a party was held in North Hall in her honor. In the second half of the term, Miss Jackson took an active part in campus life. Although Dean Jackson's main responsibility is that of coordinator of campus activities involving women, her duties include work with Homecoming, the Thanksgiving and Christmas activities, May Day and Student Council. She exceeds the role of counselor; she is more than Dean of Women; Miss Jackson is a friend.

Dean Ellamae Jackson

A versatile secretary arranges material in the newly located office of the Dean.

ALBERT K. SUNDBERG
B.S., Lock Haven; M.Ed., Pennsylvania State University
Dean of Men

In his second year as Dean of Men, Albert K. Sundberg has served as the central adviser for the men students on campus. Interviewing and orientating incoming "frosh" men comes under Dean Sundberg's jurisdiction. In freshman orientation, he explains to the men what college has to offer, what it expects of the individual, and what a student may gain from it besides a diploma. Tall in stature and jovial in character, Dean Sundberg carries out his responsibilities in his office located in South Hall. If a student has a problem with which Dean Sundberg can be of help, he knows that he can go to Mr. Sundberg and be warmly received with a friendly, "Come in."

Dean Sundberg

Dean Sundberg conducts an interview.

LEON E. LUNN
B.S., Mansfield; M.Ed., St. Bonaventure
Director of Admissions and Alumni Relations

Appropriately, one of Mr. Lunn's responsibilities is that of Director of Alumni Relations. Each year, he co-ordinates Mansfield's Alumni Day activities. In addition to his work with graduates, Mr. Lunn is in close touch with incoming Freshmen. In co-operation with the personnel deans and the Dean of Instruction, applicants are screened. After checking high school records, personal interviews, recommendations and department reports, admittance letters are sent through his office.

The job of admissions, most important in determining the calibre of students to be admitted, is successfully handled by Mr. Lunn.

Keeping files in order is an important part of alumni relations.

Be glad to have you at M.S.C.

DR. RICHARD M. WILSON
B.S., Mansfield; M.Ed., Ed.D., Pennsylvania State University
Director of Student Teaching and Placement

Dr. Wilson is directly concerned with assigning students to student teaching positions that will give them the best possible training. In addition to organizing and directing the elementary and secondary student teaching programs, Dr. Wilson is also responsible for the general organization and supervision of the music and home economics student teaching programs. His congenial personality and his sincere concern for the individual needs of each student combine to make him a most competent Director of Student Teaching and Placement.

Another offer of employment for a Mansfield graduate has arrived at the Office of the Placement Director.

Research is important in student teaching problems.

THEODORE SPENTZAS
B.S., Mansfield
Business Manager

Mr. Theodore Spentzas, our Business Manager, carries the responsibility for all non-instructional areas of the College. His office acts as a service agency for handling purchases, drawing up contracts, student registrations, and payrolls. His office also serves as a liaison between our College and the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg.

Although he is a busy person, Mr. Spentzas finds time to represent the students in many ways. He serves on the Budget and Student Union Committees. He does his best as a member of the Catering Committee to see that students are provided with an adequate diet. Mr. Spentzas meets well the many challenges presented to him as Business Manager of a growing College.

Mr. Spentzas and Mr. Hadley, Assistant Business Manager

Mr. Spentzas and Mr. Thomas, Building and Grounds Superintendent

Mr. Edward E. Van Dyne, Director of Public Relations and Administrative Assistant to President Rathgeber, has the responsibility of sending out press releases and publicizing our College. He edits the "Mansfieldian" and the "MSC Bulletin," a weekly staff and faculty sheet.

Mr. Van Dyne serves Mansfield in many capacities—adviser to The Password, securing publicity for college events, and capably maintaining a liaison with the press, radio, television, and other media of communication.

Mr. Van Dyne puts our campus in the news.

Mrs. Marie Myers, the Registrar of Mansfield State College, holds a position of great responsibility. The duties of this office, located in the Alumni Building, have multiplied due to the ever-increasing enrollment.

Mrs. Myers must file a permanent record for every student. The processing of college transcripts requires skill and attention to minute details.

Mrs. Myers working at one of her important duties as Registrar.

Arriving—registering—waiting in lines; homesickness—books—classes: extra-curricular activities—elections; new curriculum—new style class ring—new contract for graduation-announcements and invitations; Who's Who—Honorary Societies—Dean's List; dorm students—day students—single and married students—these have all been part of the college life of the class of 1961.

Upon entering college, they found themselves at Mansfield State Teachers College; they will graduate from Mansfield State College. When they organized as a class, they found themselves the largest on campus; they leave as the smallest—the class of 1964 has captured the honor of being the largest at present. They entered M.S.T.C. in search of knowledge and experience; they leave M.S.C. well qualified to carry that knowledge and experience to others.

After being a small, closely-knit class for three years, they found themselves a divided group because of student teaching. It is for this reason that they planned a senior class banquet for the spring, a last opportunity for some camaraderie as a class.

Four years—full years—completed at last, an ending and yet a beginning.

Seniors refresh themselves in the President's home after an evening of Christmas carols.

Only one more to go! It hardly seems possible that the class of 1962 is about to embark on their final year at Mansfield. As we look back, memories flood our minds. Ahead of us are many opportunities, and we face them with hope and firm determination.

The junior class has proven its worth many times. Their leadership and co-operation can be seen in countless activities of the college. The members of the class have come a long way since the day three years ago when they entered as freshmen. Many of them have grown from very "Green Frosh" to mature adults through the ups and downs, joys and sorrows, of three years of college life. May they continue to use their varied experiences as stepping stones to higher and better things as they complete their college education and face the future.

Every year a new group of students proves to the rest of the campus that they are capable of being called college students. Through their group and individual efforts, the sophomore class has contributed to activities on campus for the past two years. Meeting academic requirements is not the only phase of college life that students must fulfill to promote themselves and their class. Not only have members of the class participated in nearly all activities, but as a group representing their class, they have made a name for themselves here at Mansfield.

This year's sophomores have compiled an excellent record for themselves during their two year stay here. They stand as undefeated winners of the Grecian sing. The creating of the Campus Cotillion Committee has been an important achievement which must be accredited to the fine leadership shown in this year's sophomore and junior classes.

All in all, sophomores, you have done a fine job.

The new group of freshmen that arrived on Mansfield's campus last September faced many challenges, but in the old tradition of "Frosh" they accepted these challenges enthusiastically and capably. Early in the year they began to be recognized for various accomplishments in extracurricular activities as well as in classroom work.

Even more important than these achievements was the fact that they rapidly formed a closely knit, harmonious group. Led through their first year at Mansfield by George Novitsky, their next three years promise to be fruitful and satisfying.

Department of Education

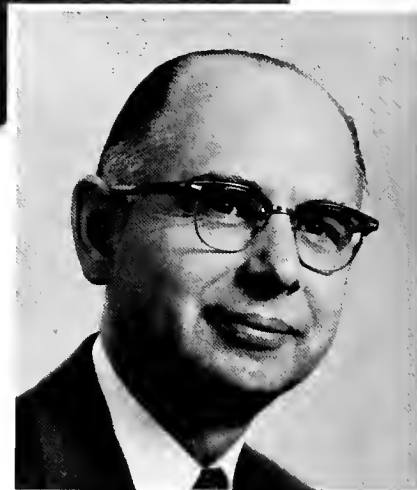

"Today we are faced with the pre-eminent fact that, if civilization is to survive, we must cultivate the science of human relations—the ability of all people of all kinds to live together in peace."

—Franklin D. Roosevelt

The role of education in the achieving of the ideal of "living together in peace" is clear. The findings of the social sciences, particularly philosophy, sociology, and psychology, point toward the schools and the teachers as leaders in the development of a truly cultural life.

The challenge to education in this world of crisis places a direct responsibility upon teachers to provide a quality experience in learning for each pupil—an education for individual excellence.

Director of the Department of Education

To prepare really professional teachers, able to meet this challenge to teaching, is a task in which the Department of Education assumes an especially vital role.

It is the basic purpose of the Education Department to provide a sound professional education for teachers. This education includes—in addition to courses in psychology, professional orientation, and methods—the opportunity to observe actual classes in session from the teacher's viewpoint, to participate in teaching as a part of professional courses, and to do practice teaching in the Campus Elementary School under the direct supervision of qualified master teachers holding advanced degrees, as well as in a selected area public school under selected public school cooperating supervisors.

A professional attitude is encouraged through organizations—the A.C.E., for elementary students, and the newly formed Mansfield chapter of the P.S.E.A.

The aims of the Home Economics Department are to prepare the home economics teacher, to educate women in the home arts, and to develop a greater appreciation of home living. These goals are all accomplished by the capable home economics faculty under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Morales.

Faculty members present a broad overview in many fields. Specialized courses are offered—clothing selection, food and nutrition, and furniture refinishing. All are vital to home economics education so needed in modern America.

The Department constantly is striving to keep in pace with the most modern trends in the field of home economics education. The role of home economics in complex society is expanding in importance. A firm foundation of General Education is vital for satisfactory participation in the field of home economics.

Mrs. Morales, in her career as Director of the Home Economics Department, has done much to carry its development forward. An outstanding person, possessing a strong sense of responsibility, she has achieved recognition of the Department throughout the service area of the College for the quality education offered to students interested in the many phases of home economics.

Mrs. Morales, retiring as of this year, leaves achievements for the College in the field of home economics that will prove an enduring reminder of a dedicated teacher.

Music Education Department

Department of Music Education

The Music Department occupies a prominent position at Mansfield. The Department plays a vital role in campus activities—assembly programs, band and orchestra concerts, vesper services, recitals, parades, well sings, dances, Grecian sings, and jam sessions.

The training of teachers for the purpose of furthering music in public schools is the primary aim of the department. In addition to general education courses, music students are given instruction and practice in harmony, theory, conducting, and orchestration. Valuable experience is provided through individual and class instrumental instruction and participation in various musical groups.

Under the guidance of Dr. Sylvester Schmitz, the Department has undergone a change in curriculum beginning with this year's freshman class. A major and minor are now required of each student.

Music organizations present opportunities for a student to put his learning to practice. Opera Workshop, Chorus, Wind Ensemble, Orchestra, and Brass Ensemble provide a means for cultural entertainment for the Campus. Tours by the Wind Ensemble and Opera Workshop help to promote public relations for the College, as well as provide professional experiences for its students.

Department of the Humanities

Intellectual attainment, student self-direction—these are the foundations the Department of Humanities has accepted as essential for a truly liberal education.

Liberal education for all students, regardless of areas of specialization, stands as a paramount requirement in an age when change must come.

The Humanities Department offers opportunity for mastery of subject matter disciplines. It seeks to challenge the individual to attain both in depth and breadth, to grasp fundamental principles, to understand, to express ideas, to use intellectual power for an activating approach, not a stagnating conformity.

To aid in the pursuit of individual excellence, the Department, under the leadership of Dr. Baum, has planned a curriculum designed to give Mansfield students a liberal education in languages and literature, speech, drama, and arts.

Future expansion in the scope and depth of all phases of liberal education is envisioned, based firmly upon a respect for tradition.

Department of Science and Mathematics

The Department of Science and Mathematics aims to present its subject matter in a manner that is fully adaptable to the capacities, the interests, and the personal needs of students—for teaching as well as in other areas of scientific endeavor.

The faculty members seek to develop in the student those habits and attitudes which will enable him to attack the ordinary problems of life in a scientific manner, keenly observing and weighing the facts with open-mindedness and a spirit of tolerance. Through experimentation, demonstrations, laboratory aids, and television, the students' knowledge is forever broadening in scope.

The scientific method is important in dispelling ignorance and in leading mankind toward a better and happier life. An understanding of modern life requires a comprehension of basic principles in the natural sciences.

The Department is not static; it uses a dynamic approach to the problems of achieving scholarship on the part of students interested in pursuing the Science and Mathematics curriculum.

Department of Social Science

Today, more than ever before, recognition is being given to the Social Sciences for the important role they play in enabling men to live and work together intelligently in our complex world.

Sociological research and historical fact are being employed by thinking individuals to bring light upon the problems that beset mankind in a nuclear age and to aid in their solution.

The social sciences, in this paramount role, need scholars, well-versed in the many areas of this field: history, government, comparative cultures, international relations, geography, economics, sociology, and the other specialized studies. The Social Science Department provides this opportunity for the scholarly pursuits of these subjects. It is a growing Department with a plan for the future involving expansion in subjects to be offered as part of the Social Science curriculum, in the securing of materials designed to widen intellectual horizons, and in the providing of a program directed toward developing the potentialities of every student concentrating in the social science field.

Student Council

Student Council, the student governing body of the college, works hand in hand with the administration to promote better understanding between students, faculty, and administration.

The council has a strong voice in the political happenings of the college and has the power to set up rules and regulation pertaining to the students.

We can rightly be proud of our Student Council for the part they play in promoting good will and harmony on our campus. Through council's levelheadedness, they have been able to bring about greater understanding and good will among those connected with life at Mansfield.

The council has completed many projects to make our college days more beneficial and enjoyable. It has worked, both mentally and physically, to put lights on the tennis courts and is now planning to convert the old swimming pool into another center for student activities.

The 16 member student council has worked diligently at everything they have undertaken and has brought their activities to the attention of every student.

Women's Dorm Council

The Women's Dormitory association, the largest single group on campus, centers its activities in North Hall. The job of governing such a large group is one that requires much responsibility and hard work from its leaders. Guided by the dormitory manual, Harmony Hall, and the excellent leadership of its council president, Kathy DeMara, North Hall has contributed much to campus life: open house, a float in the homecoming parade, the women's dorm weekend, and parties where the women become acquainted with one another.

The Men's Dormitory, South Hall, or more humorously "Unity Hall," is one of the most vital organizations on campus. It not only serves as a home for almost two hundred male students, but it also provides entertainment throughout the year by sponsoring a dorm weekend, open house, a homecoming parade float, and an inter-floor softball league.

Efficiently governed by the Men's Dorm Council, under the direction of Dean Costello, the Dormitory has charge of men dorm students on campus and their activities. Members of the Council are democratically elected by Dormitory students who thus guarantee themselves representative government.

Day Students' Executive Board

Through the leadership of the Day Students' Council, the day students have become more and more active in campus life during the last year. Their activities included sponsoring a float in the annual homecoming parade, the successful planning of a weekend complete with beatnik blast, and an annual picnic for all day students.

Under next year's officers, further expansion into campus activities is planned.

Board of Presidents

The Board of Presidents was formed this year by Gary Moore, Student Council president. Its members, the heads of all organizations on campus, are striving to have all groups cooperate and help each other to make the campus an active one.

Herb Eike, Student Council Vice-President, presides over the meetings. This is the only meeting composed of students where a faculty member is never present.

M. Trapani, J. Maxson, G. Moore, F. Lane, C. DeMara, D. Johnson, L. Kreamer, E. Marvin, J. Terry.

Budget Committee

The Budget Committee is one of the most vital bodies on campus. First, the committee thoroughly examines the proposed credits and debits for an organization. Next, it considers the validity of these expenses. Finally, the full budget is presented to Student Council for its approval.

This hard working group deserves credit because this year there was no faculty advisor. Here is another way in which Mansfield demonstrates the movement toward progressive student leadership.

Radio Club Executive Board

Newly formed organizations look to the Budget Committee for financial consideration.

Student Union Council

The Student Union Council affects more students on our campus than any other body except Student Council itself.

These people make the policies which govern the "HUT," the most popular spot on our campus. The committee is made up of a representative from each of the five student governing organizations, and an equal number of faculty representatives. Their duties are to regulate the "HUT'S" management, its hours, the menu choices, in fact, its total operation.

Mansfield students and faculty appreciates having a friendly and attractive place to meet and to eat. We owe much to this hard-working committee.

Within these thirty years, 960 members have gone through the formal initiation of the chapter. Included among this year's initiates were Dr. Stephen Bencetic and Mr. S. Manford Lloyd, in recognition of their outstanding service to the teaching profession.

In the spring of 1960, Mrs. Bishop, the originator of the Bishop Method of clothing construction, was made an honorary member of Kappa Omicron at M.S.C.

Invitations to those who qualify are sent in the spring. To gain membership, a student must have a "B" or better average and the unanimous vote of all the members of the organization.

The Art Club, under the direction of Dr. Bencetic and Mr. Runyon, is an example of what can be done with talent, initiative, and much hard work.

Membership in this creative organization is conferred upon students who have earned an "A" during any one semester of art. It is also given to those individuals sponsored by a club member.

College Players

The College Players have as their objective growth in those qualities which contribute most to personal and professional advancement in the theatre arts. The players feel that their organization provides experience in imaginative and creative thinking. In the fall of the year, they successfully produced, under the direction of Mr. Conaway, Teahouse of the August Moon.

The College Players find that fun, hard work, and cooperation are the qualities which make their organization one of high professional standards. They foster enthusiasm and develop a pleasure in the fascinating world of entertainment. The basic training that members receive in all phases of dramatic production proves invaluable in college activities, in the preparation for future careers, as well as directly contributing to the achieving of personal maturity.

English Club

English Club is a group usually involved in avid discussion. The absorbing topic of a discussion might be a piece of writing—perhaps a short story written by a Mansfield student. The constant surveillance and occasional interjections of the advisers of this group, Dr. Elizabeth Swan and Mr. Roy Wolper, make a definite contribution to the program. Some of the stimulating meetings of the year are devoted to the analysis of writings. This particular program area is greatly enriched by Mr. Wolper, a promising writer in his own right.

The English Club is, in a sense, a professional group. Among its goals is the betterment of English teachers through the broadening of the minds of those who plan to pursue that career. The club also seeks to provide intellectual stimulation and to inspire an appreciation of culture through programs in which speakers, as well as members, participate.

The influence of the club is extended beyond the sphere of its own membership. Through its annual presentations, a movie and an assembly, the goals of the club are advanced to the campus.

I.C.G.

I.C.G. is an organization dedicated to the principles of better government. The Mansfield chapter, guided by Dr. Richard Kozicki, Assistant Professor of Social Science, is actively interested in politics and governmental affairs. I.C.G. takes the motto of the state organization: "Our purpose is not to preach, nor even teach, but merely provide a means whereby students may learn together how their government operates." The importance of the knowledge and use of parliamentary procedure is stressed.

Each spring, delegates from the club attend a state-wide convention in Harrisburg. This year the program was a model State Legislature Assembly.

Membership in I.C.G. is open to all students on campus interested in becoming better citizens through an increased knowledge and understanding of their government.

Mansfield Open Forum

Mansfield Open Forum is the latest innovation of the Social Science Department. Organized in the fall of 1958, its purpose is to broaden the members' intellectual ideals as well as to embrace topics of social, economic, and political natures. The organization, in cooperation with the Intercollegiate Conference on Government, sponsored a mock presidential election last fall.

As its name implies, it is a forum for discussion. Topics have been on the international exchange student program featuring an exchange student now studying at Lock Haven, the problems of organization and growth that new African nations are facing, and the contemporary situations existing in Britain, as reported by Miss Billings.

Music Education Club

The Music Education Club, advised by Dr. Helen Henry, is composed of teachers and students in the music curriculum and others on campus who have an active musical interest. The purpose of the club is to keep its members informed of current happenings in music and of new teaching techniques and aids.

Monthly meetings spotlight some specific area of music. Films are shown, records are played, and lectures are given by a faculty member or an invited guest—all in an effort to keep the club up to date in music news.

Dues collected for membership entitle each member to an enrollment in the national group known as MENC, the Music Educators' National Conference. Dues also entitle each member to a monthly publication called the Music Educator's Journal, a magazine containing information concerning the advancement of music and the role of the music teacher in the public school system.

Socially, this group is an active one. After many of its business meetings, dances or parties are held. And, of course, the Annual Picnic in late spring is an expected event. These activities, together with the club's more serious projects, keep it busy throughout the year.

Newman Club

"Newmanites" are members of a socio-religious group on campus—the Newman Club. The Newman Club is a Catholic student organization which gets its name from its founder, John Henry Newman, an English priest of the 19th century. It is affiliated nationally with other such clubs throughout the country on other college and university campuses, and is a member of the Middle Atlantic Province of Newman Clubs.

In the line of campus activities, the club holds communion breakfasts and usually tries to sponsor a college weekend or a movie in Straughn. The communion breakfasts are held once a semester at some nearby restaurant preceded by a mass in Mansfield or Tioga, having a guest clergyman as speaker to address the members on some pertinent aspect of their college lives.

The membership this year is one of the largest yet in the group's history on M.S.C. campus—approximately 175 students. Meetings are held twice monthly and are devoted both to business matters and to talks by guest speakers.

Omicron Gamma Pi

Omicron Gamma Pi, an affiliate of the National American Home Economics Association, is the key organization of home economic students on campus.

Serving as a hub of home economic activity, the organization offers an opportunity for deepened learning about the field as well as providing a chance to share knowledge gained by individual members of the club through their summer projects.

Its activities reach out into the college through its fashion show—much anticipated by both fashion-conscious women on campus and fashion-admiring males, its Homecoming Float, and its planned Weekend.

Omicron Gamma Pi really strives toward its objective of developing an active interest in the many facets of Home Economic Education.

Student Christian Association

The noble purpose of this organization is to advance Christian ideals and to make college students more aware of their responsibilities to their religion.

S.C.A. members receive inspiration through speakers like Dr. Ninomiya who showed slides from Japan and Miss Jackson who spoke on her trip to England; also from vesper services, hymn sings, talks by exchange students, and faculty speakers.

Cooperativeness and mutual determination is shown by these members in preparing a Homecoming Parade float that won first prize.

The club advisers, Dr. Heltibridle and Mr. Foreman, lend encouragement as students and faculty participate in varied worthwhile activities.

Women's Athletic Association

"We won. We won!" This cry is familiar to all students during intramurals run by WAA. This is the largest and one of the most active organizations on campus. All women interested in sports are encouraged to join. The intramurals each year include tennis, basketball, volleyball, bowling, pool, softball, table tennis, and shuffleboard. Through participation in these, members work toward blazer pockets, letters, and keys.

An outstanding project each year is the collection of Christmas gifts for Tioga welfare children.

In the spring WAA plans hikes, cookouts, and many other impromptu activities. The year's activities are climaxed with a spring picnic.

Marching

With the beat of drums and the familiar break strain of the Red and Black Victorious, Mansfield State College Marching Band contributes a familiar sound to the Mansfield campus in the fall. Under the stellar direction of Mr. Bertram Francis, Associate Professor of Music, the M.S.C. Marching Band achieves one successful season after another, with raves from the audience wherever they appear.

MR. FRANCIS
Director

Band

The band, a group of seventy-two musicians and four majorettes, known state-wide for its brilliant half-time performances, travelled this year to Kutztown and Bloomsburg to help bolster enthusiasm and school spirit.

A special acclaim is accorded to vivacious Waneta Easterbrook, a drum majorette, par excellence, and to Porter Eidam, student assistant to Mr. Francis.

Esquires

The Esquires is a group of sixteen especially selected musicians. The members are chosen on the basis of their outstanding knowledge of music and ability to perform in public.

The sound of their instruments blending harmoniously in a modern jazz number or a tender love song can be heard at most College social events and at school dances and assemblies throughout many areas of Pennsylvania.

Membership in the group is highly competitive. It is open to any male Mansfield student meeting the requirements at a supervised public audition.

Concert Wind Ensemble

The Concert Wind Ensemble is, with full instrumentation, a streamlined version of the modern concert band. Having played in many sections of Pennsylvania and New York under the direction of Mr. Bertram Francis, this group is recognized for its excellent performances. Included in the yearly schedule of the organization are fall and spring tours as well as several assembly programs here at Mansfield.

D. Kiely, J. Stabile, H. Jurkovic, N. Harrison, L. Dix, J. Eike, T. Eastwood, R. Schloyer.

Renaissance Singers

The Renaissance Singers, composed of eight vocalists, follow the 16th century tradition of singing around a candle-lit table, in the manner in which English madrigals were sung. The custom at that time was for the dinner guests to provide their own entertainment; a mark of culture was to be able to sing a part of music at sight.

The Singers repertoire include unaccompanied madrigals of the late 16th century which were popular in England and Italy. They also sing folk music which they accompany, in some cases, with folk instruments.

The group, organized on this Campus in 1938, has progressed since then into an active organization performing at various campus affairs under the direction of their coach and adviser, Miss Clarissa Randall.

This year, the Renaissance Singers toured for three days in the Johnstown, Pennsylvania, area where they made seven appearances at various schools and churches. The Singers were also featured in a Promenade Recital on Campus Monday, March 6. In the spring, they presented a program for the Music Club at Wellsboro, and an early May performance at Troy, Pennsylvania.

Brass Ensemble

The Brass Ensemble is a vital part of the Music Education Department. Under the capable direction of Mr. Donald Van Ess, the group is active in both school and community functions. The ensemble traveled to Williamsport in April and presented a concert at Saint Marks Lutheran Church. The group is composed of selected musicians who qualify for their positions on brass instruments.

Woodwind Quintet

The Woodwind Quintet, under the direction of Dr. Benjamin Husted, is a select group of outstanding performers on woodwind instruments. The organization gives these students an opportunity to play chamber music and to become acquainted with this type of music literature. Since all the members of the woodwind quintet are members of other instrumental groups on campus, the public appearances of this organization are limited to an assembly program and an occasional off-campus engagement.

Campus Choralaires

Each year, Mr. Fowler stands before a group of freshman music students and other interested students of other curricula to direct them in proper choral habits.

To some this organization is known as the Freshman Chorus, to others it is Chorus II. Its true name, however, is Campus Choraleers. This is the group responsible for much of the choral singing heard about campus. It meets twice a week to rehearse its material and at the end of the first semester presents this in a program to the student body. After that it ceases to exist as a separate group and is absorbed into the Advanced Chorus to join them in performing their material.

Opera Workshop

Under the direction of Mr. Jack Wilcox, Opera Workshop presents an operetta in the fall and a musical in the spring. Opera Workshop's main goal is to provide experience in opera and musical stage shows for Mansfield students.

The Road Company, which operates somewhat independently of the other productions, performs for school and service organizations. Their program generally consists of excerpts from both operettas and musicals. During the Christmas season, they produced the operetta, Hansel and Gretel. Any qualified student interested in Opera Workshop and its function may become a member of the organization. Singers, actors, dancers, and stage craftsmen who meet with Mr. Wilcox's approval are cordially invited into the organization.

Advanced Chorus

The Advanced Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Eugene Jones, has presented selections of both contemporary and classical music. At Christmas time, the chorus presented Handel's Messiah. For their spring concert, under guest director Miss Margaret Hillus, the chorus presented Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes, Virgil Thompson's Mass, and Prayers of Kierkegaard by Samuel Barber.

COACHING STAFF

The gridders, led by Captain Bob Hunter, sported a 3-5 record. The record is a deceiving one as a couple of the games were decided by one or two points. The "Mounts," however, are a young team and should be tough to beat next year.

This season Coach Stelmack tried the two platoon system and it proved to be fairly successful. The defensive unit was led by Bob Hunter, Carm Pascarella, Duke Snyder, Ben Crisi in the line, while Phil Haley and Jug McKeever were the ends. Turning in creditable performances in the secondary were George Shubic, Jim Tomallo, and Jack Fetchkan.

Football

The offensive stalwarts included "Snuffy" Sukenic, Gary Shoemaker, Sandy Lingenfelter, and Jerry Mattis. Perhaps the most outstanding player of the year was our all conference end, Ray Ronchi, Ray and Bill Roesch teamed up to make the most feared passing combination in the league. Rounding out the offensive unit were Ed Souders, the team's leading groundgainer, Ed Henry, a shifty halfback, and Wes Wertz, a pile-driving fullback.

All in all, the season wasn't what you would call a great success, but many of our young ballplayers gained valuable experiences and should bolster the mountie squad next year.

Varsity

The Mounts, led by captain Dave Russell, set a flock of new records in completing the first undefeated season in Mansfield's basketball history.

They set a new scoring record of 118 points, averaged 95.7 points per game in league play, and scored 47 field goals in one game. Dave Russell led the team in scoring and assists, while Dick DiBiasco was second and "GM" Massari was third. Dick DiBiasco was the team's leading rebounder.

Giving the team a big boost when they needed it were Bill "Bones" Kusleika and Terry Crouthamel, and always good for a clutch basket was Bobby "Radar" Felt. For the third straight year Coach Gibson's men were invited to the District 30 NAIA playoffs. They ended the regular season by beating Indiana 97-87 to capture the Pennsylvania State College Championship.

Baseball

Lack of practice due to inclement weather hampered the ball club tremendously during the 1960 season: the lack of defensive stability and mental errors were costly to the Mounts last season.

Led in the early part of the season by Denny Kubasko, a hard hitting first sacker, and sparked in toward the end of the season by the veteran third baseman "Mac" Morse, the Mounts had a tremendous offensive punch. Coming through with many timely hits was Dave Russell, a catcher and second baseman. The outfield chores were handled by Ralph Carls, Terry Manning, and Gene Salsman.

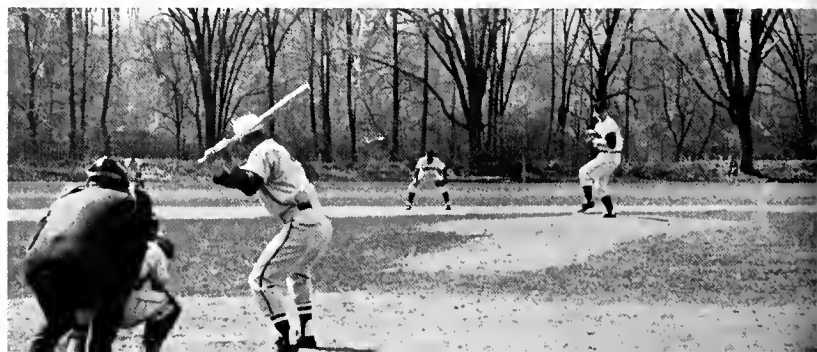

Dick Dewey and Al Zyga played commendably at second and shortstop, respectively. Leading the hurlers were Leo Fox, a curve ball specialist, and Gene Massari, a fireballing right hander. Creditable performances were also turned in by "Jungle Jim" Turner and Jack Fetchkan.

Given a break by the weatherman, and if there aren't too many injuries, the Mounts should enjoy one of their finest years in quite a spell.

Golf

The Mansfield State College golf team, coached by Mr. Marion E. "Spots" Decker, was faced with the difficult task of replacing its previous championship team. After losing five members from last year's squad, a reconstruction had to begin. The linksters golfed six matches, and added a chance at playing in the state tournament. They ended the season with two wins, three losses, and one tie.

Early practice on their home course, Corey Creek Golf Club, was difficult due to uncooperative spring weather.

The lettermen on the golf team were Mike McNaney, Don Grodis, Tom Rudy, Joe Venskytis, and Dick Bieber.

The Password is the student handbook published yearly by a permanent committee of Student Council. Although the Password is designed primarily as a guide to freshmen, upperclassmen and faculty members find it very useful.

The Password serves as a reference encyclopedia of Mansfield. In it one can find regulations, cheers, songs, information on different organizations and activities, and "Mansfield Hail," our Alma Mater. Included also are sections on miscellaneous information, the college calendar, a map of the campus, dining room procedures and class constitutions.

Sandra Maxson receives the yearbook award.

Acknowledgement

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to my editors, their staffs, Mr. McNaney, and, especially, to our patient, hard-working adviser, Dr. Mildred Menge, for all the long hours and time spent in organizing this 1960-61 Carontawan.

We hope that this annual will continually serve as a reminder of your most cherished memories of the past year.

Sandra Snader,
Editor
